BACKWOODS PIETY.

How a Country Preacher Rose Superior to Satan's Temptations.

She was from the country, but she didn't intend to take back water on anything on that account if she could help it. Piety was the subject of dis cassion, and Sister Jane, who lived in a town that made some pretentions to being considered a city, had been expatiating on the immaculate righteousness of Parson Jenkins.

Sister Melinda bided her time until her innings came round and then took

"I don't mind allowin'," she said, "that Parson Jenkins is a powerful religious man, but when it comes to downright wrestlin' with Satin' an' resistin his wiles and temptations, why. I stand right up in meetin' an' says that our Parson tioodfriend can't be beat by no man. He don't run a soup kitchen 'cus we don't have no use for such things down our way an' he don't go slummin' 'cus we ain't got no slums, but he's always ready for a tussle with the adversary, no matter how many snares and pitfalls he sets for his feet. "You know, he keeps a maple grove onto his little place, an' he sets a powerful store by 'em. Well, it hadn't been very good sugarin' weather at the time I'm speakin' of. It had been freezin' considerable night times, but it hadn't thawed out any daytimes, an' the sap hadn't had a good chance to run. But Parson Goodfriend wuz allers a great hand for takin' time by the forelock, so he got his holes bored an' his spouts dray in an' his buckets set so as to have everything ready to take advantage of the right sort of weather at his trees on Monday mornin'-cus, of course, he would't let himself think of them even on a Sunday-he found that his sap troughs an' buckets wuz just brimful. Then what do you think

"Why. I suppose he did what any other man would have done," replied Sister Jane. "He took the sapaway to make maple sugar out of it." Menday evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles Colin gave a party in honor of Mr. Aver Hirsch. After a pass are at cards, a support was announced. It was an elaborate one and the remainder of the evening was consumed in its consumption. The guests were: Messes, L. S. Bowers, Char. Fechheimmer, the Go damith hose Kary and didn't shout for joy an' take that sap away, but he just flopped down on his knees right then an' ther' an' he saysit wuz my own cousin what heard him Get thee behind me. Satin; you can't tempt me with any Lord's day sap. An' then he riz up an' he emptied every hast drop of the stuff onto the ground. an' next Sunday he preached the most convincin' sermon I ever heard on the wiles of the evil one."-N. Y. Adver-

SUPERSTITION IN QUEBEC.

Efficacy of the Priests and of Hard Work Contrasted at St. Albans. The ignorant inhabitants of the province of Quebec are very credulous people, and they look for miracles to be performed whenever they are in trouble. In the Canadian village in which landslides have occurred the people seem to be depending on miraculous interposition to prevent further destruction of life and property, instead of going to work to protect their property from the inspectors of Mild, quiet Cordevs, Ballyla. property from the incursions of the river by scientific means. At St. Albans the other morning after mass there was a procession in the open air, preceded by the statue of St. Vincent de Paul, to implore Divine help in the emergency. The people would have done much better to have said their prayers while engaged in some undertakings designed to prevent the calamities which they fenred. It is reported that when Mgr. Laffeche arrived at St. Albans, accompanied by several of his clergy, the terror-stricken residents surrounded the prelate and asked for his blessings. Meanwhile, every hour or two buildings with large masses of earth continued to tumble into the river.

It is significant that the officials of the Canadian Pacific railway did not depend on the priests, and by dumping trainleads of stone in the river and placing stone on the banks, they were able to protect their bridges and their defense against the river incidentally protected a church and convent which were in danger. The incident shows how much behind the age the small farmers of the village in the province Quebec are. They haven't advanced much beyond the Sixteenth century

On Thursday evening the German Ladies independent Aid society planned and executed a very pleasant surprise upon Mr. and Mrs. S. Liberal receipts are looked for next week, and this also had a weaken-ing tendency. There was some rain in the northwest and temperatures were cooler. Cables were lower.

Corn was easier and off-rings were mate-rially increased, influenced altogether on the prospects for rain in the corn beit today or tomorrow. Shorts evidently cov ered pretty freely yesterday and there was no urgent demand, commission houses all having more selling orders, and local longs were inclined to realize and take profits.

"white summer," precisely as black, ment. touched up withen color, has been the favorite dress of the winter. With this in view, a Paris hatter has provided delightful sailor hats of white duck for the girls who are going in for gowns of duck for yachting and the sea-side tity of sugar to be used the acid varigenerally. The snowy duck is stretched smoothly over rice straw hats of the purest whiteness and most perfect shape, the straw showing only on the inside of the brim. The trimming may be simply a band of thickly repped ribbon with a bow on the left side clinging to the crown. But if left to sugar to aid in preserving the cotor the milliner a further trimming is added, as a twist around the crown, of dark blue and white silk, striped or destroy the natural flavor, but only pialted, with a great resette of the same on the left, from which springs a while very hot, in air tight glass cans, group of snowballs on long stems that move with every motion of the wearer. A half-inch binding of thickly repped ribbon of a navy blue shade is around the brim. Another duck hat of purest white has a band of butter-colored gulpure insertion around the crown, with the left a cluster of purplish-blue iris blossoming on long stems stretching high in the air amid their thick green leaves.—Harper's Barar.

NEW YORK, July 28.-There is very ittle to be said of today's stock market which reached a point of stagnancy, which a short time ago would have been considered impossible of attainment. With total sales of less than 40,000 shares the speculation could not have been very interesting. In sugar which was the leader in the market, only 9,200 shares changed hands, and the fluctuations were confined within a range of 1/2 per cent, the highest point touched being 103%
